Communication for undergraduate students

Students are reminded that copying their degree thesis, even if only in part, is a crime.

Consequently, if the extremes of plagiarism are recognized, the thesis will not be discussed and the candidate will be asked to prepare a new dissertation.

If plagiarism is detected on the day of discussion, it will still be interrupted.

We advise that if plagiarism emerges after the discussion of the thesis, the academic authority will be forced to proceed by denouncing the fact to the judicial authority.

The purpose of this communication is to inform all students of the serious consequences that may arise from presenting copied thesis or parts of them. The Module leaders are committed to check any possible misconduct and will proceed according to the lines outlined above, without any derogation.
